I. INTRODUCTION BY THE CHAIRMAN OF THE PREPARATORY COMMITTEE

1. The Preparatory Committee of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development held its first substantive session at Nairobi from 6 to 31 August 1990. The Committee adopted all its decisions by consensus. These included decisions relating to the transfer of technology, financial resources, regional preparations for the Conference, operations of the voluntary fund to support the participation in the preparatory process of developing countries, in particular the least developed countries, and the role of non-governmental organizations in the preparatory process. Working Groups I and II began their work in earnest and made much progress during the first substantive session. This is reflected in the several decisions taken by the Preparatory Committee on the work of the two Working Groups.

2. The Preparatory Committee can now look forward to the second substantive session at Geneva with optimism. The expectations are high but, given the spirit of co-operation and goodwill demonstrated by all groups at the first substantive session and with the support of the Secretary-General of the Conference and his secretariat, the Preparatory Committee should be able to fulfil the challenging tasks that lie ahead.

II. MATTERS CALLING FOR ACTION BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OR BROUGHT TO ITS ATTENTION

3. The following decisions of the Preparatory Committee call for action by the General Assembly or are brought to its attention:

(a) Role of non-governmental organizations in the preparatory process for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development;

(b) Operations of the voluntary fund for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development;

(c) Dates of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development;

(d) Representation at the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development;

(e) Dates of the second and third sessions of the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development.

For the text of the decisions adopted by the Preparatory Committee, see annex I to the present report.

READEX FICHE

III. ORGANIZATION OF THE SESSION

4. The Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development held its first session at Nairobi from 6 to 31 August 1990 (15th to 27th meetings). Two working groups, established by the Preparatory Committee at its organizational session (see A/44/48 and Corr.1 and 2, chap. V), met in conjunction with the session of the Preparatory Committee. Their reports are contained in annexes II and III. During the course of the session, the Preparatory Committee also held informal consultations on cross-sectoral issues.

73. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August, the Preparatory Committee adopted a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/L.19) entitled "Working group on legal, institutional and all related matters", submitted by the Chairman on the basis of informal consultations (see annex I, decision 1/26).

Environment and development

74. At the 24th meeting, on 29 August, the representative of Bolivia, on behalf of the States members of the Group of 77, introduced a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/L.12), entitled "Environment and development", which read as follows:

> "The Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:
> "(a) Requests the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, in collaboration with the relevant organs, organizations and bodies of the United Nations system, to submit to the Preparatory Committee at its second session a progress report underlining the close relationship between development and environment, taking due account of the provisions of the Declaration on International Economic Co-operation, in particular the Revitalization of Economic Growth and Development of Developing Countries, adopted by the General Assembly in resolution S-18/3 of 1 May 1990, as well as of, inter alia, the following elements:

"(i) The relationship between poverty and environmental degradation;

"(ii) The relationship between the lack of economic growth and the degradation of the environment in developing countries;

"(iii) The relationship between inappropriate patterns of growth and development and the degradation of the environment and its consequences;

"(iv) The relationship between the external debt crisis of the developing countries, including the phenomenon of the net transfer of resources from developing to developed countries, and the degradation of the environment;

"(v) The relationship between the negative international economic environment, including the deterioration of the terms of trade of developing countries, and the degradation of the environment;

"(b) Further requests the Secretary-General of the Conference, in the documents and reports he may submit during the entire preparatory process for the Conference, to keep a balance between development and environment, both in the developmental sectors and in the environmental fields, and to include cross-sectoral issues with the other elements in the form of a matrix."

75. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August, the Preparatory Committee adopted a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/L.22), submitted by the Chairman on the basis of informal consultations held on the draft decision contained in A/CONF.151/PC/L.12 (see annex I, decision 1/25).

New and renewable sources of energy

76. At the 25th meeting, on 30 August, the representative of Sweden introduced a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/L.20), entitled "New and renewable sources of energy", which read as follows:

"The Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development invites the Committee on the Development and Utilization of New and Renewable Sources of Energy to consider appropriate mechanisms for action, encompassing funding and technology transfer within its area of competence, and to submit its recommendations as an input to the preparatory process for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development."

77. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August, the Preparatory Committee adopted a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/L.23), submitted by the Chairman on the basis of informal consultations held on the draft decision contained in A/CONF.151/PC/L.20 (see annex I, decision 1/27).

Cross-sectoral issues

78. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August, the Preparatory Committee adopted a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/L.24), entitled "Cross-sectoral issues", submitted by the Chairman on the basis of informal consultations (see annex I, decision 1/28).

Co-operation on transfer of technology and financial resources to developing countries

79. At the 25th meeting, on 30 August, the representative of Bolivia, on behalf of the States members of the Group of 77, introduced a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/L.21), entitled "Implementation of paragraphs 15 (j) and (m) of section I of General Assembly resolution 44/228", which read as follows:

> "The Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development requests the Secretary-General of the Conference to submit to it at its second session a progress report on studies made and action taken with a view to implementing the provisions of paragraphs 15 (j) and (m) of section I of General Assembly resolution 44/228."

80. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August, the Preparatory Committee adopted a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/L.25), entitled "Co-operation on transfer of technology and financial resources to developing countries", submitted by the Chairman on the basis of informal consultations on the draft decision contained in A/CONF.151/PC/L.21 (see annex I, decision 1/29).

81. Before the adoption of the decision, statements were made by the representatives of the United States of America, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, Mauritania, Japan and Bolivia (on behalf of the States members of the Group of 77).

V. ARRANGEMENTS FOR FUTURE SESSIONS OF THE PREPARATORY COMMITTEE

82. The Preparatory Committee considered arrangements for future sessions of the Preparatory Committee (agenda item 3) at its 24th meeting, on 29 August.

83. At the same meeting, the Preparatory Committee adopted a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/L.10), entitled "Dates of the second and third sessions of the Preparatory Committee", submitted by the Chairman on the basis of informal consultations (see annex I, decision 1/7).

VI. PROVISIONAL AGENDA FOR THE SECOND SESSION OF THE PREPARATORY COMMITTEE

84. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August, the Preparatory Committee approved the draft provisional agenda for its second session as contained in the note by the Secretariat (A/CONF.151/PC/L.14) (see annex I, decision 1/30).

VII. ADOPTION OF THE REPORT OF THE PREPARATORY COMMITTEE ON ITS FIRST SESSION

85. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August, the Preparatory Committee adopted the draft report on its first session (A/CONF.151/PC/L.13 and Add.1) and requested the Rapporteur to complete it for submission to the General Assembly at its forty-fifth session.

1/1. Role of non-governmental organizations in the preparatory process for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development

1. At its 22nd meeting, on 14 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee agreed that the effective contributions of non-governmental organizations in the preparatory process were in its interest.

2. There was agreement on broad-based involvement by relevant non-governmental organizations.

3. The Preparatory Committee's policy should be to encourage an equitable representation of non-governmental organizations from developed and developing countries and from all regions and also to ensure a fair balance between non-governmental organizations with an environment focus and those with a development focus. The Preparatory Committee would encourage the participation of scientific and other organizations.

4. The Preparatory Committee decides that, only for the purpose of its first session, the following rules would apply without prejudice to any decision that might be taken by the General Assembly at its forty-fifth session:

(a) Non-governmental organizations shall not have any negotiating role in the work of the Preparatory Committee;

(b) Relevant non-governmental organizations may, at their own expense, make written presentations in the preparatory process through the Secretariat in the official languages of the United Nations as they deem appropriate. Those written presentations will not be issued as official documents except in accordance with United Nations rules of procedure;

(c) Relevant non-governmental organizations in consultative status with the Economic and Social Council may be given an opportunity to briefly address plenary meetings of the Preparatory Committee and meetings of the Working Groups. Other relevant non-governmental organizations may also ask to speak briefly in such meetings. If the number of such requests is too large, the Preparatory Committee shall request the non-governmental organizations to form themselves into constituencies and each constituency to speak through one spokesman. Any oral intervention by a non-governmental organization would, in accordance with normal United Nations practice, be at the discretion of the Chairman and with the consent of the Preparatory Committee or the Working Group, as the case may be.

5. The Committee noted with appreciation the initiative taken by the Secretary-General of the Conference to seek extrabudgetary resources, in addition to the voluntary fund established pursuant to General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989, in order to facilitate access in the preparatory process to especially important contributions that would not otherwise be available, particularly through the effective participation of institutions and experts from developing countries in various aspects of the preparatory process. In that context, the Secretary-General was requested to utilize those resources, inter alia, to enable representatives of relevant non-governmental organizations from developing countries, in particular the least developed among them, to participate in the preparatory process and the Conference, either independently or as members of official delegations if their countries so decide.

6. The Chairman would, with the assistance of the chairmen of the regional groups, other co-ordinating groups and the Secretariat, propose a procedure for determining non-governmental organizations' competence and relevance to the work of the Preparatory Committee.

7. The Preparatory Committee recommended to the General Assembly that it consider at its forty-fifth session the question of the participation of non-governmental organizations in the preparatory process for the Conference taking into account the decision adopted by the Preparatory Committee at its first session.

8. The Preparatory Committee endorsed the proposals made by the Secretary-General of the Conference in his report (A/CONF.151/PC/9) subject to the present decision.

1/2. Regional preparation for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development

At its 23rd meeting, on 29 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee took note with appreciation of the report of the Secretary-General of the Conference on preparations at the regional level (A/CONF.151/PC/12) and requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to transmit to the executive secretaries of the regional commissions for their consideration the relevant suggestions in that report concerning the organization of regional meetings.

1/3. Operations of the voluntary fund for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development

At its 23rd meeting, on 29 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee decided to recommend to the General Assembly that payment be made from the voluntary fund of travel expenses and, on an exceptional basis, daily subsistence allowance, for representatives of the least developed countries only.

1/4. Dates of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development

At its 24th meeting, on 29 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, recalling General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989, section I, paragraphs 1 and 2, recommended to the General Assembly that the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development be held from 1 to 12 June 1992.

1/5. Representation at the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development

At its 24th meeting, on 29 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development welcomed the preparations for the Conference in 1992 being made by the Government of Brazil and its intention to invite the heads of State or Government to Brazil at that time. In that regard, and in view of the importance and scope of the decisions expected to be taken by the Conference, the Preparatory Committee recommended to the General Assembly at its forty-fifth session that States be represented at the Conference at the level of head of State or Government.

1/6. Report of the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development on the activities of the Conference secretariat

At its 24th meeting, on 29 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development expressed its appreciation to the Secretary-General of the Conference for his report a/ and his introductory statement b/ and took note of his proposal regarding the Conference in paragraph 32 of the text of his introductory statement. The Preparatory Committee requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to prepare a more detailed report on his proposal for consideration at its second session.

1/7. Dates of the second and third sessions of the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development

At its 24th meeting, on 29 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development decided:

(a) That its second session should take place from 18 March to 5 April 1991 on the understanding that the session would be extended to 12 April if required;

(b) That its third session should take place from 12 to 30 August 1991 on the understanding that the session would be extended to 4 September if required.

1/8. Transfer of technology

At its 25th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having considered the report of the Secretary-General of the Conference concerning the subject of technology transfer c/ and bearing in mind the relevant provisions of General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989, requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to prepare for consideration by the Preparatory Committee at future sessions a more detailed study that would:

(a) Elucidate the concept of environmentally sound technology and clarify the process by which such technology is transferred;

(b) Examine the technological needs of developing countries;

a/ A/CONF.151/PC/5 and Add.1 and 2.

b/ See A/CONF.151/PC/5/Add.1.

c/ A/CONF.151/PC/5, annex II, sect. II.

(c) Examine the needs of developing countries for training of their personnel in order to enable those countries to adapt and accept the transfer of environmentally sound technology;

(d) Examine the obstacles, on both the exporting and importing sides, that impede the transfer of environmentally sound technology;

(e) Examine the adequacy of existing modalities and programmes for the transfer of environmentally sound technology;

(f) Examine what new mechanisms are needed and their financial implications;

(g) Provide examples of case-studies of success and failure;

(h) Examine the potential for regional and subregional co-operation;

(i) Review the implications for this issue of the outcome of the Uruguay Round of multilateral trade negotiations.

1/9. Financial resources

At its 25th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having considered the report of the Secretary-General of the Conference concerning the subject of new and additional financial resources, in particular for developing countries, d/ and bearing in mind the relevant provisions of General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989, requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to continue to study the issue and to report further to the Preparatory Committee at its second session.

1/10. Overview of the activities of the United Nations system relevant to General Assembly resolution 44/228

At its 25th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, having considered the note by the Secretariat on the overview of the activities of the United Nations system relevant to General Assembly resolution 44/228, e/ took note with appreciation of the report and of the contributions of the United Nations Environment Programme and the other organizations of the United Nations system to the work of the Preparatory Committee at its first session, and invited them to contribute to the preparation for the Conference.

e/ A/CONF.151/PC/6.

1/11. Climate change

At its 26th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:

(a) Requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to follow closely the work that the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change would undertake in future, in full compliance with decision SS.II/3B of 3 August 1990 of the Governing Council of the United Nations Environment Programme and resolution 2.6/1(EC-XLII) of 22 June 1990 of the Executive Council of the World Meteorological Organization; the negotiations supported by the United Nations Environment Programme and the World Meteorological Organization on a framework convention on climate change and related legal instruments, as appropriate; the Second World Climate Conference; and other major related meetings that would take place between the first and second sessions of the Preparatory Committee, and to prepare a report that analysed and synthesized the results of those activities and made recommendations thereon;

(b) Also requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, on the basis of the report requested in subparagraph (a) of the present decision, to make recommendations concerning the contribution of the Preparatory Committee to the negotiating process for a framework convention on climate change and related legal instruments, as appropriate, taking into account the development objectives of developing countries, and including the integration of the developmental and cross-sectoral objectives identified in General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989 and, in particular, in paragraph 8 of the resolution adopted by the Preparatory Committee at its organizational session, f/ without prejudice to the decision to be taken by the General Assembly at its forty-fifth session recommending ways, means and modalities for further pursuing those negotiations;

(c) Further requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to draw on, inter alia, the work of competent organs, organizations and bodies of the United Nations system, and other relevant organizations, in initiating appropriate work to estimate the cost, in particular to developing countries, of adopting measures to limit possible climate change and mitigate its adverse effects, in accordance with the objectives of General Assembly resolution 44/228, as contained in its relevant paragraphs, and to report thereon to the Preparatory Committee at its second session.

1/12. Ozone depletion

At its 26th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:

(a) Invited States that had not yet done so to accede to or ratify the Vienna Convention for the Protection of the Ozone Layer and the Montreal Protocol on Substances that Deplete the Ozone Layer; f/ See A/44/48 and Corr.1 and 2, para. 56.

(b) Requested the secretariat of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to co-operate with the United Nations Environment Programme and the World Meteorological Organization in evaluating the need for any additional action to be taken by the Preparatory Committee to support the ongoing work within the framework of the Vienna Convention and the Montreal Protocol, and requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to report on that question to the Preparatory Committee at its third session;

(c) Also requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, in co-operation with the United Nations Environment Programme, to report to the Preparatory Committee on the effectiveness of the implementation of the provisions relating to financial co-operation and transfer of technology to developing countries of the Montreal Protocol, as amended by the Second Meeting of the Parties to the Protocol, held in London from 27 to 29 June 1990.

1/13. Transboundary air pollution

At its 26th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:

(a) Invited countries that had the necessary experience and know-how, particularly industrialized countries, and the Economic Commission for Europe, to share with interested developing countries, regional commissions and organizations their experience in addressing the problems of transboundary air pollution;

(b) Invited the appropriate bodies of the United Nations system to consider the need to develop response options, upon request, for those regions that had not as yet taken measures to limit emissions that cause transboundary air pollution;

(c) Requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to prepare for the third session of the Preparatory Committee a report on the subject of transboundary air pollution, stressing that international co-operation was needed to enable developing countries to effectively monitor and assess transboundary air pollution; therefore, the report should address the technology transfer, training and additional financial resources that could be required to achieve that objective.

1/14. Combating deforestation

1. At its 26th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development recommended that discussions on the protection and sustainable management of boreal, temperate, subtropical and tropical forest ecosystems must be well co-ordinated and compatible with other possible types of action related to the reduction of emissions of greenhouse gases, protection of biological diversity, rational utilization of biological resources and improvement of market conditions for timber and timber products that might be taken by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the United Nations Environment Programme, the World Meteorological Organization and the International Tropical Timber Organization in connection with conventions on climate change and on biological diversity and other relevant agreements.

2. The Preparatory Committee requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to prepare for the second session of the Preparatory Committee, with the assistance of relevant international organizations and in close consultation with Governments, recognizing their sovereignty over their natural resources within their territories, a comprehensive report on the following:

(a) Status of boreal, temperate, subtropical and tropical forest cover and its loss due to deforestation, acid rain and air pollutants, fire, desertification and other causes, and efforts towards reforestation, afforestation and sustainable forest management;

(b) Assessment of the role of forests as:

(i) An important source of energy and timber for rural communities in developing countries;

(ii) Sinks of greenhouse gases, which may contribute to preventing possible climate change;

(iii) Habitats of biological diversity;

(c) Alternative sources of energy and energy-efficient devices to combat deforestation arising from heavy dependence on fuelwood;

(d) Quantification of the economic value of forests in terms of their multiple uses;

(e) Socio-economic impact on timber-exporting countries of trade restrictions, including bans on imports of timber and timber products;

(f) Outcome of all discussions and reports by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the United Nations Environment Programme, the World Meteorological Organization and the International Tropical Timber Organization in fields related to forestry;

(g) Compilation of information pertaining to the transfer of technology on the basis of the objectives set in General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989;

(h) Linkages between the international economic environment and poverty and their effects on forest land use;

and to suggest to the Preparatory Committee at its second session options for the co-ordination of national, regional and international action on forests.

3. The Preparatory Committee invited:

(a) The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations to take those considerations into account in preparing for the meeting of its Committee on Forestry in September 1990, the ninety-eighth session of its Council in November 1990, and the review of the Tropical Forestry Action Plan;

(b) The United Nations Environment Programme and the World Meteorological Organization to take those considerations into account in their preparations for negotiating a framework convention on climate change;

(c) The United Nations Environment Programme to take those considerations into account in preparing an international legal instrument on biological diversity;

(d) The International Tropical Timber Organization to take those considerations into account in preparing for the next meeting of its Council in November 1990 and the revision of the International Tropical Timber Agreement foreseen.

1/15. Soil loss and desertification and drought

I

Soil loss

At its 26th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:

(a) Emphasized the necessity of further action by the competent organizations of the United Nations system, especially the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and the United Nations Environment Programme, in monitoring and assessing soil degradation, as well as in strengthening the formulation and implementation of national soil policies;

(b) Requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to keep the Preparatory Committee informed on the preparations for and the outcome of the FAO/Netherlands Conference on Agriculture and Environment - Strategies and Tools for Sustainable Agricultural Development, to be held in April 1991;

(c) Invited the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations to include in its preparation of a strategy for sustainable agriculture, measures to avoid and combat land degradation, with due consideration to the wide range of socio-economic and interdisciplinary issues involved and to report on the progress made to the Preparatory Committee at its second session through the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development;

(d) Requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to examine and report on ongoing and future regional co-operation efforts in support of national programmes and plans for projects, including those at the community level, that addressed land resource problems in a fully integrated development context;

(e) Requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, in close collaboration with the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Environment Programme, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the United Nations Sudano-Sahelian Office, the World Bank, the International Fund for Agricultural Development and other relevant international organizations, to prepare an analysis of alternative sustainable systems of production on marginal lands and the relation between intensive and extensive agriculture and land degradation.

II

Desertification and drought

The Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:

(a) Invited the United Nations Environment Programme to implement urgently the provisions of paragraphs 6 and 7 of General Assembly resolution 44/172 A of 19 December 1989, and 44/172 B related to the progress achieved in the implementation of the Plan of Action to Combat Desertification;

(b) Requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, in consultation with the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Environment Programme, the United Nations Sudano-Sahelian Office, the World Bank, the International Fund for Agricultural Development, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the United Nations Educational, Cultural and Scientific Organization and other appropriate regional, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations to report to the Preparatory Committee at its third session on the results achieved, the control measures applied and the financial and technical support given in the implementation of the Plan of Action to Combat Desertification and the need for further international co-operation that might be required in combating drought and desertification;

(c) Invited the United Nations Environment Programme, in collaboration with relevant organizations of the United Nations system, to initiate work on the monitoring, assessment and implementation of the control measures in the Plan of Action to Combat Desertification;

(d) Requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to follow closely the drought monitoring and research activities currently being undertaken by the World Meteorological Organization, the United Nations Environment Programme, the United Nations Sudano-Sahelian Office, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and other relevant organizations, inter alia, the Sahel-Sahara Observatory and to report to the Preparatory Committee at its third session on the status of such activities and make recommendations on how the Preparatory Committee could support those very important initiatives;

(e) Also requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to prepare a comprehensive study on ways and means of expanding reforestation activities to combat land degradation and desertification.

1/16. Conservation of biological diversity

At its 26th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:

(a) Requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to follow closely the work of the Ad Hoc Working Group of Experts on Biological Diversity, established under the auspices of the United Nations Environment Programme, on the negotiations of an international legal instrument on biological diversity concerning the protection of biological diversity and the rational use of biological resources within a broad socio-economic context, including the work of the Sub-Working Group on Biotechnology, as well as the relevant work of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources and other intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations;

(b) Further requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development to report to the Preparatory Committee at its second session on the status of the negotiations, to analyse the results achieved and to make recommendations thereon.

1/17. Environmentally sound management of biotechnology

At its 26th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development requested the Secretary-General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:

(a) To follow closely the progress in the work undertaken by the UNIDO/UNEP/WHO/FAO informal working group on safety in biotechnology, as well as that of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development and other relevant international organizations, with a view to expediting the elaboration of basic guidelines on safety in biotechnology and facilitating the preparation of an international code of conduct, also, taking into account, inter alia, the work of the Sub-Working Group on Biotechnology set up by the Ad Hoc Working Group of Experts on Biological Diversity at its third session in July 1990, and to submit a report to the Preparatory Committee at its third session on the progress of the work;

(b) To report on progress in the deliberations within the framework of the ongoing work of the United Nations Environment Programme on an international legal instrument on biological diversity;

(c) To prepare for the third session of the Preparatory Committee a report on the methodologies and procedures that could be used internationally to assess biotechnology risks, inter alia, to human health and the environment and the impact on socio-economic conditions;

(d) To prepare for the third session of the Preparatory Committee a report on the role of the private sector, particularly the role of transnational corporations, in promoting, applying and transferring biotechnology, in consultation with the United Nations Centre on Transnational Corporations and other relevant international bodies.

1/18. Environmental and development education

At its 26th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to draw upon the competence of the organs, organizations and bodies of the United Nations system concerned and other relevant organizations, in exploring measures to promote public awareness and education on environment and development, especially of the younger generation, as well as other measures to increase awareness of the risks and possible responses with regard to the issue addressed by Working Group I.

1/19. Provisional agenda for the second session of Working Group I

At its 26th meeting, on 30 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development approved the following draft provisional agenda for the second session of Working Group I, in accordance with the resolution adopted by the Preparatory Committee at its organizational session, in particular paragraphs 8 and 9: g/

1. Protection of the atmosphere:

   (a) Climate change;

   (b) Ozone depletion; h/

   (c) Transboundary air pollution. h/

2. Land resources:

   (a) Deforestation;

   (b) Soil loss;

   (c) Desertification and drought. h/

3. Conservation of biological diversity.

4. Environmentally sound management of biotechnology. h/

5. Provisional agenda for the third session of the Working Group.

6. Adoption of the report of the Working Group.

g/ See A/44/48 and Corr.1 and 2, chapter V. Paragraph 8 reads as follows:

"8. Decides, in fulfilling their mandates in accordance with General Assembly resolution 44/228, that each of the two working groups should ensure an integrated approach to environment and development questions, taking into account matters such as the patterns of consumption and production, access to and transfers of environmentally sound technology, financial resources requirements, human resources development, economic instruments, attainment of food security in the context of a sustainable development of agriculture, institutional arrangements, the improvement of the living and working environment of the poor in urban slums and rural areas, through eradicating poverty, inter alia, by implementing integrated rural and urban development programmes, as well as taking other appropriate measures at all levels necessary to stem the degradation of the environment, protect human health conditions and improve the quality of life."

h/ It was expected that substantive discussion of the item would take place at the third session of the Preparatory Committee.

1/20. Protection of the oceans and all kinds of seas, including enclosed and semi-enclosed seas, and coastal areas and the protection, rational use and development of their living resources

1. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, drawing in particular upon the views expressed at the first session of the Preparatory Committee and upon the expertise available in the United Nations Environment Programme and all other relevant bodies, and taking account of all relevant paragraphs of General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989, to submit to the Preparatory Committee at its second session a comprehensive report with recommendations for action covering the following areas:

(a) Establishment of mechanisms for endogenous capacity building and human resources development, including measures to support the strengthening of the institutional capacities of developing countries to address ocean and sea-related issues;

(b) Measures to strengthen technical co-operation, both between developed and developing countries and among developing countries, for the development and strengthening of capacities of developing countries for identifying, analysing, monitoring, managing and preventing environmental problems and for developing their natural resources in the pursuit of sustainable development;

(c) Establishment, as appropriate, of early-warning systems for oil-spill and hazardous chemical substance emergencies and of mechanisms for notification and for mobilization of appropriate assistance on request in such cases;

(d) Measures to expand and strengthen national, regional and international data-gathering, evaluation and monitoring systems and information exchange mechanisms;

(e) Promotion of public awareness and education campaigns, inter alia, through non-governmental organizations, to foster a better appreciation of the problems facing the marine and coastal environment;

(f) Linkages between oceans and seas and the issues of possible climate change and biological diversity;

(g) The impact of possible climate change on small island ecosystems and vulnerable coastal areas;

(h) Pollution-related problems and status of living marine resources in all marine regions, including specific seas and polar regions, as appropriate;

(i) Measures to strengthen regional, subregional and interregional co-operation programmes, including the Regional Seas Programme of the United Nations Environment Programme, which have proved effective and viable mechanisms in dealing, inter alia, with pollution-related problems;

(j) The effectiveness and feasible strengthening of existing international institutions, the effectiveness and status of implementation of existing legal instruments and the identification of gaps in existing mechanisms for the protection of the marine environment;

(k) Promotion and application of the precautionary approach, as appropriate, and use of incentives and disincentives to promote clean production methods to combat marine pollution;

(l) Effectiveness of national, regional and international efforts to deal with marine pollution from all sources and of measures in support of those efforts, including:

(i) Development of national port infrastructure for the collection and disposal of wastes;

(ii) Measures to strengthen or establish facilities for waste and used-water treatment;

(m) Integrated management for the development of coastal areas and maritime zones under national jurisdiction, providing an appropriate balance between environmental and developmental requirements and, to this end, development of integrated management techniques, including environmental impact assessment;

(n) The effectiveness of existing international institutions, the effectiveness and status of implementation of existing legal instruments and the identification within appropriate forums of gaps in existing mechanisms for the protection, rational use and development of living marine resources, including the living resources of the high seas, taking into account the results of the 1984 World Conference on Fisheries Management and Development as well as the Third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea;

(o) The impact of large-scale harvesting, and new fishing technologies and fishing technologies incompatible with the sustainable management of living marine resources, taking into account General Assembly resolution 44/225 of 22 December 1989 on large-scale pelagic driftnet fishing;

(p) Appropriate measures for the conservation, rational use and sustainable development of the living resources of the high seas and the protection of their ecosystems;

(q) Means of protecting or rehabilitating living marine resources and their habitats, including mangroves and coral reefs, taking into account the ongoing work of the United Nations Environment Programme towards a legal instrument on biological diversity and that of its Regional Seas Programme;

(r) Updating of studies on the status from 1972 onward, of whales, other marine mammals and any endangered marine species.

2. The Preparatory Committee invited the International Maritime Organization, in co-operation with the States parties to the London Convention on the Prevention of Marine Pollution by Dumping of Wastes and Other Matter, to consider initiating work to strengthen the régime curbing dumping at sea, taking into consideration all relevant paragraphs of the Bergen Ministerial Declaration on Sustainable Development in the ECE region i/ and the outcome of the deliberations of the other regional commissions due to hold regional conferences in preparation for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development.

i/ A/CONF.151/PC/10, annex I.

3. The Preparatory Committee invited the United Nations Environment Programme, the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, and the World Meteorological Organization to study ways and means of strengthening observation systems to protect oceans, inter alia, through the establishment of a global ocean observation system. j/

4. The Preparatory Committee invited the United Nations Environment Programme, in co-operation with relevant organizations of the United Nations system, including the Office for Ocean Affairs and the Law of the Sea of the United Nations Secretariat, to consider making an evaluation of proposals for the further development of scientific, technical and financial co-operation for the protection of the marine environment from land-based sources of pollution.

5. The Preparatory Committee requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to follow closely the work of the intergovernmental meeting of experts to be held in Canada in the first half of 1991, in co-operation with the United Nations Environment Programme, the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization and the Office for Ocean Affairs and the Law of the Sea of the United Nations Secretariat, to develop general principles for the protection of the marine environment from land-based sources of pollution and, as appropriate, to report on the results of this meeting relative to the work of the Conference to the Preparatory Committee at its third session.

6. The Preparatory Committee invited the United Nations Environment Programme, in co-operation with relevant organizations of the United Nations system, to consider undertaking an evaluation of the 1985 Montreal Guidelines for the Protection of the Marine Environment from Land-based Sources of Pollution, k/ where appropriate, taking into consideration existing regional arrangements.

7. The Preparatory Committee also invited the organs and programmes referred to in paragraphs 2 to 6 of the present decision to carry out the tasks indicated as part of the preparatory process for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development, in consultation with the Secretary-General of the Conference, and requested him to report on progress to the Preparatory Committee at its third session.

1/21. Protection of the quality and supply of freshwater resources

1. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development requested the Secretary-General of the Conference drawing, in particular upon the views expressed at the first session of the Preparatory Committee and upon the expertise available in the United Nations Environment Programme and all other relevant bodies, and taking into account all relevant paragraphs of General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989, to submit to the Preparatory Committee at its second session a progress report with recommendations for action covering the following areas:

---

j/ See decision XV/4 of 19 July 1989 of the Assembly of the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission.

k/ See the United Nations Environment Programme, Marine Pollution from Land-based Sources, Environmental Law Guidelines and Principles, No. 7.

(a) Linkages between freshwater resources and other issues dealt with by the Working Groups, as well as the interconnections with various human activities, including agriculture, forestry, energy production, human settlements and industry, and other intersectoral aspects identified in General Assembly resolution 44/228;

(b) Development of measures for the protection and sustainable use of living freshwater resources, including those in ecologically sensitive areas, similar to the measures that exist for living marine resources;

(c) Protection for sustainable and equitable use, where appropriate, of transboundary freshwater resources and international lakes;

(d) Application of integrated approaches to the development, management and use of water resources and of preventive as well as remedial approaches to pollution control;

(e) Ways and means of strengthening and extending monitoring and assessment of and research on both the quantity and quality of freshwater resources;

(f) Formulation of methods for integrating environmental and developmental factors in the development and sustainable use of freshwater resources;

(g) Identification of the obstacles that impede the adequate supply, availability and quality of fresh water, including drinking water, in developing countries;

(h) Measures for human resources development in all areas related to freshwater resources, including education, public awareness and training, as well as the development of endogenous technological capacity;

(i) Measures to strengthen global, regional and local institutional capacities, including those in the area of science and technology, to address freshwater resource issues.

2. The Preparatory Committee invited the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations to consider including sustainable use of water resources in agriculture as an important element of its preparation of a strategy for sustainable agriculture, and requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to keep the Preparatory Committee informed of progress in that area.

3. The Preparatory Committee also invited all relevant organizations of the United Nations system involved in the preparations for the International Conference on Water and the Environment, within their respective areas of competence and based, inter alia, on the new strategy for the 1990s for the implementation of the Mar del Plata Action Plan 1/ and the strategy for follow-up of the International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade, to consider and to make major efforts towards the further development of scientific, technical and financial co-operation for the protection of the quality and supply of freshwater resources through integrated management of such resources, including concrete proposals for action, as well as identification of sources of funding and of responsible bodies for follow-up, and requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to follow closely this work and to report on progress to the Preparatory Committee at its third session.

1/22. Environmentally sound management of wastes, particularly hazardous wastes, environmentally sound management of toxic chemicals and prevention of illegal traffic in toxic and dangerous products and wastes

I

Environmentally sound management of wastes, particularly hazardous wastes

1. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, drawing in particular upon the views expressed at the first session of the Preparatory Committee and upon the expertise available in the United Nations Environment Programme and all other relevant bodies, and taking into account all relevant paragraphs of General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989, to submit to the Preparatory Committee at its second session a progress report with recommendations for action covering the following areas:

(a) The development of an international strategy for environmentally sound management of hazardous wastes, giving priority to waste reduction at source, aiming, inter alia, at self-sufficiency and taking into account the needs of developing countries;

(b) Measures to strengthen international, regional and subregional co-operation, taking account, inter alia, of the relevant provisions of the Basel Convention on the Transboundary Movement of Hazardous Wastes and their Disposal, including exchange of information, training and technical assistance, in particular to developing countries, and measures to encourage, where appropriate, harmonization of standards for waste disposal;

(c) Education, public awareness and training programmes on the management of wastes;

(d) Development and dissemination of information on and promotion of clean production technologies and recycling and source reduction methods in order to achieve optimal utilization of resources and minimal amounts of wastes and pollution;

(e) Identification, analysis and assessment of the impact of the treatment and disposal of wastes, particularly hazardous wastes, on health and the environment and methods used to those ends;

(f) Review and analysis of problems encountered in the ratification of the Basel Convention and measures to be taken to solve these problems, taking into account, where appropriate, the positions of regional groups on this question;

(g) Progress achieved in the preparation of protocols under the Basel Convention, particularly the protocol on liability and compensation for damage resulting from the transboundary movement and disposal of hazardous wastes;

(h) Measures to monitor and control the transboundary movement of hazardous wastes, particularly where such movements affect developing countries and, where appropriate, regions;

(i) Strengthening the monitoring and control of international movements of hazardous wastes, including the feasibility of adopting a world-wide ban on the export of hazardous wastes to developing countries, taking account of the competence of relevant organizations and bodies of the United Nations system;

(j) The need for strengthening the guidelines of the International Atomic Energy Agency on international movements of radioactive wastes, including the feasibility of adopting a world-wide ban on the export of radioactive wastes to developing countries, taking into account the exclusive competence of the International Atomic Energy Agency;

(k) Measures to strengthen the capabilities of developing countries in enforcing regulations concerning the management of hazardous wastes and that of radioactive wastes;

(l) Measures for human resources development and the establishment of endogenous technologies in the developing countries in areas concerning the management and treatment of wastes, particularly hazardous wastes;

(m) Comprehensive review of solid waste and sewage-related issues, particularly in the light of the consequences of increasing urbanization and industrialization;

(n) Comprehensive review of existing difficulties encountered by developing countries in funding human waste treatment facilities and suggestions regarding ways and means of overcoming them;

(o) Greater participation of industry in waste prevention and minimization programmes, including the application of clean technologies;

(p) Measures to strengthen international co-operation for waste treatment and disposal, including, as appropriate, the establishment of regional waste treatment, analysis and disposal facilities, in particular for hazardous wastes, in those cases where such facilities may not be economically practicable on an individual national basis, taking into account the need for assistance to the developing countries in this regard.

2. The Preparatory Committee invited the Director General of the International Atomic Energy Agency to make available to the Secretary-General of the Conference the Code of Practice on the International Transboundary Movement of Radioactive Waste and available technical information on the management and disposal of radioactive wastes.

3. The Preparatory Committee invited the United Nations Environment Programme, in co-operation with the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the World Health Organization, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization and other relevant organizations, to consider preparing elements for an international strategy for environmentally sound management of hazardous wastes, bearing in mind the provisions of the Basel Convention and taking fully into account the elements in paragraph 1 of the present decision, as well as the views of the Preparatory Committee, and requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to follow that work and report on it to the Preparatory Committee at its third session.

4. The Preparatory Committee requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to prepare, in consultation with the United Nations Environment Programme, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the World Health Organization, the United Nations Industrial Development Organization and other relevant organizations, a report providing advice to the Preparatory Committee at its second session on policy guidance regarding environmentally sound management of hazardous wastes.

II

Environmentally sound management of toxic chemicals

5. The Preparatory Committee requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, drawing in particular upon the views expressed at the first session of the Preparatory Committee and upon the expertise available in the United Nations Environment Programme and all other relevant bodies, and taking into account all relevant paragraphs of General Assembly resolution 44/228, also to cover in the report requested in paragraph 1 of the present decision the following areas:

(a) Measures to strengthen the London Guidelines for the Exchange of Information on Chemicals in International Trade m/ and the International Code of Conduct on the Distribution and Use of Pesticides;

(b) Modalities for supplementing the London Guidelines, including the possible elaboration of a convention in due course;

(c) The wider applicability of the "cradle to grave" approach to the production, use and disposal of chemicals, including risk reduction and the promotion of clean technologies, taking into account decision SS.II/9 of 3 August 1990, section XII, of the Governing Council of the United Nations Environment Programme;

(d) The possible development of a mechanism for management of chemicals similar to the Codex Alimentarius;

(e) Measures to encourage the harmonization of testing, evaluation, classification and labelling of chemicals;

(f) Methods to promote sustainable agriculture, particularly with respect to integrated pest management, which seeks to decrease overdependence on agro-chemicals;

m/ UNEP/GC.15/9/Add.2/Supplement 3 and Corr.1, appendix.

(g) Assistance to developing countries in the monitoring, assessment, prevention and mitigation of chemical accidents, particularly in the context of the awareness and preparedness for emergencies at the local level project of the United Nations Environment Programme;

(h) Measures to strengthen information exchange mechanisms, with special attention to the needs of developing countries, including the introduction of prior consent procedures of the London Guidelines and the International Code of Conduct on the Distribution and Use of Pesticides, with special attention to the needs of developing countries;

(i) Measures to promote public awareness and education on chemical risks and management, including action by non-governmental organizations;

(j) Measures for the training and development of human resources and the establishment and development of endogenous technologies in areas related to the management of toxic chemicals from an environmental and developmental standpoint.

III

Illegal international traffic in toxic and dangerous products and wastes

6. The Preparatory Committee requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to submit to the Preparatory Committee at its second session a report on the implementation of General Assembly resolution 44/226 of 22 December 1989, concerning the monitoring and control, at the regional and international levels, of the international traffic in toxic and dangerous products and wastes.

1/23. Provisional agenda for the second session of Working Group II

At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development approved the following draft provisional agenda for the second session of Working Group II, in accordance with the resolution adopted by the Preparatory Committee at its organizational session, in particular paragraphs 8 and 9: n/n/ See A/44/48 and Corr.1 and 2, chapter V. Paragraph 8 reads as follows:

"8. Decides, in fulfilling their mandates in accordance with General Assembly resolution 44/228, that each of the two working groups should ensure an integrated approach to environment and development questions, taking into account matters such as the patterns of consumption and production, access to and transfers of environmentally sound technology, financial resources requirements, human resources development, economic instruments, attainment of food security in the context of a sustainable development of agriculture, institutional arrangements, the improvement of the living and working environment of the poor in urban slums and rural areas, through eradicating poverty, inter alia, by implementing integrated rural and urban development programmes, as well as taking other appropriate measures at all levels necessary to stem the degradation of the environment, protect human health conditions and improve the quality of life."

1. Protection of the oceans and all kinds of seas, including enclosed and semi-enclosed seas, and coastal areas and the protection, rational use and development of their living resources:

   (a) Global aspects of marine pollution;

   (b) Regional seas and coastal areas;

   (c) Protection, rational use and development of living marine resources.

2. Protection of the quality and supply of freshwater resources: application of integrated approaches to the development, management and use of water resources.

3. Environmentally sound management of wastes, particularly hazardous wastes, and of toxic chemicals, as well as prevention of illegal international traffic in toxic and dangerous products and wastes:

   (a) Environmentally sound management of wastes, particularly hazardous wastes;

   (b) Environmentally sound management of toxic chemicals;

   (c) Prevention of illegal international traffic in toxic and dangerous products and wastes.

4. Provisional agenda for the third session of the Working Group.

5. Adoption of the report of the Working Group.

1/24. Guidelines for national reports

At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development recommended the revised guidelines suggested by the Secretary-General of the Conference o/ as a broad framework for countries to follow in the preparation of their national reports.

1/25. Environment and development

At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:

(a) Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, in collaboration with the relevant organs, organizations and bodies of the United Nations system, to submit to the Preparatory Committee at its second session a progress report underlining the close interrelationship between development and environment, in accordance with General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989 and other relevant United Nations resolutions and taking due account of the provisions of the o/ A/CONF.151/PC/8/and Add.1.

Declaration on International Economic Co-operation, in particular the Revitalization of Economic Growth and Development of Developing Countries, adopted by the General Assembly in its resolution S-18/3 of 1 May 1990, as well as of, inter alia, the following elements:

(i) The relationship between poverty and environmental degradation;

(ii) The relationship between demographic pressures and unsustainable consumption patterns and environmental degradation;

(iii) The relationship between the lack of economic growth in most developing countries and the degradation of the environment;

(iv) The relationship between inappropriate patterns of growth and development and the degradation of the environment;

(v) The relationship between the external indebtedness of developing countries and the phenomenon of net transfers of resources from developing to developed countries and their ability to contribute fully and in accordance with their capacities and resonsibilities to global efforts to protect and enhance the environment;

(vi) The relationship between the international economic climate, including the need to reverse the terms of trade when these are unfavourable to developing countries, and the degradation of the environment;

(vii) The relationship between environment, development and market mechanisms;

(viii) The relationship between economic and social conditions at the national and international levels and the protection of the environment;

(b) Further requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, in the documents and reports he may submit during the entire preparatory process for the Conference, to keep a balance between development and environment, both in the developmental sectors and in the environmental fields, and to include cross-sectoral issues with the other elements in the form of a matrix.

1/26. Working group on legal, institutional and all related matters

1. At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development requested the Chairman of the Preparatory Committee with the assistance of the Secretary-General of the Conference, to conduct consultations with delegations during the inter-sessional period on the terms of reference and timing for the commencement of the work of Working Group III, on legal, institutional and all related matters.

2. It further requested the Secretary-General of the Conference, in the light of the outcome of the consultations, to submit a report, with appropriate recommendations, including draft terms of reference, to the Preparatory Committee early during its second session, with a view to enabling the Committee to take the necessary action on the matter.

1/27. New and renewable sources of energy

At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development invited the Committee on the Development and Utilization of New and Renewable Sources of Energy to make available to the Secretary-General of the Conference studies relevant to the preparatory process for the Conference, to consider appropriate action, including funding and technology transfer, within its area of competence and within existing financial resources, not excluding voluntary contributions, and to submit a report to the Preparatory Committee at its fourth session.

1/28. Cross-sectoral issues

At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development:

(a) Invited the Commission on Human Settlements when considering the theme "Human settlements and sustainable development" at its thirteenth session, in 1991, and in its other activities, to pay special attention to the agenda and mandate of the Conference as given in General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989, with particular reference to the living and working environment of the poor in urban slums and rural areas, in order to make a substantive contribution to the preparatory process for the Conference;

(b) Invited the World Health Organization, in co-ordination and consultation with the Secretary-General of the Conference, to contribute specific suggestions on the health dimension of environmental problems for further consideration in the preparatory process;

(c) Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to take up specific studies on the relationship between economic policy and environmental policy, and also on economic and environmental indicators, drawing on studies undertaken by relevant international organizations;

(d) Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to prepare a paper on the need to harmonize developmental objectives and sustainability and environmental considerations in deliberations on international economic policy without adding new forms of conditionality or unjustified barriers to trade, as indicated in General Assembly resolution 44/228, section I, paragraphs 15 (h) and (i), bringing out specific issues for consideration by the Preparatory Committee;

(e) Requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to co-ordinate and consult with the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization and other relevant organizations in order to develop proposals on environmental education and public awareness for consideration by the Preparatory Committee.

1/29. Co-operation on transfer of technology and financial resources to developing countries

At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development requested the Secretary-General of the Conference to submit to it at its second session a progress report on the implementation of relevant provisions of General Assembly resolution 44/228 of 22 December 1989 related to financial resources and transfer of technology, in particular those of paragraphs 15 (j), (k) and (m) of section I.

1/30. Provisional agenda for the second session of the Preparatory Committee

At its 27th meeting, on 31 August 1990, the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development approved the following draft provisional agenda for its second session:

1. Adoption of the agenda and other organization matters.

2. Preparations for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development on the basis of General Assembly resolution 44/228 and taking into account other relevant General Assembly resolutions:

   (a) Activities of the Conference secretariat;

   (b) Recent actions of intergovernmental and other bodies of relevance to the preparatory process;

   (c) Cross-sectoral issues;

   (d) Reports of the Working Groups.

3. Arrangements for future sessions of the Preparatory Committee.

4. Provisional agenda for the third session of the Preparatory Committee.

5. Adoption of the report of the Preparatory Committee.

ANNEX II

Report of Working Group I

Rapporteur: Mr. Andreas WAGNER (German Democratic Republic)

I. ORGANIZATIONAL MATTERS

1. Working Group I held 14 meetings (1st to 14th), from 13 to 17, 20, 21 and 30 August 1990.

2. At its 1st meeting, on 13 August, the Working Group elected by acclamation, three Vice-Chairmen and the Rapporteur. As a result, the officers were as follows:

Chairman: Bo Kjellen (Sweden)

Vice-Chairmen: Shinichi Isashiki (Japan)
Charles A. Liburd (Guyana)
Mohamed Mahmoud Ould El Ghaouth (Mauritania)

Rapporteur: Andreas Wagner (German Democratic Republic)

3. The agenda of the Working Group, which was approved by the Preparatory Committee at its 16th plenary meeting, on 7 August, and issued in document A/CONF.151/PC/11, was as follows:

1. Protection of the atmosphere:

   (a) Climate change;

   (b) Ozone depletion;

   (c) Transboundary air pollution.

2. Land resources:

   (a) Deforestation;

   (b) Soil loss;

   (c) Desertification and drought.

3. Conservation of biological diversity.

4. Environmentally sound management of biotechnology.

5. Adoption of the report of the Working Group.

6. Provisional agenda for the second session of the Working Group.

4. The Working Group had before it, under each agenda item, the relevant sections of the following documents:

(a) Report of the Secretary-General of the Conference on the activities of the Conference secretariat (A/CONF.151/PC/5 and Add.1 and 2);

(b) Note by the Secretariat on an overview of the activities of the United Nations system relevant to General Assembly resolution 44/228 (A/CONF.151/PC/6);

(c) Report of the Secretary-General of the Conference on a summary of activities of intergovernmental and international organizations relevant to General Assembly resolution 44/228 (A/CONF.151/PC/7);

(d) Note by the Secretariat on decisions of immediate relevance to the Preparatory Committee for the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development adopted by the Governing Council of the United Nations Environment Programme at its second special session (A/CONF.151/PC/L.7).

A complete list of documents is contained in annex IV to the report of the Preparatory Committee.

II. PROTECTION OF THE ATMOSPHERE

A. Climate change

5. The Working Group considered the question of climate change (agenda item 1 (a)) at its 2nd to 5th and 14th meetings, on 13, 14, 15 and 30 August.

6. At the 2nd meeting, on 13 August, introductory statements were made by the representatives of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development and the World Meteorological Organization. Statements were also made by the representatives of Bolivia (on behalf of the States members of the Group of 77), Nauru, Italy (on behalf of the States members of the European Economic Community), Colombia, Brazil, Lesotho, Argentina, Tunisia, Malaysia, Sweden, Mexico, Belgium and Finland.

7. At the 3rd meeting, on 14 August, statements were made by the representatives of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, Venezuela, Chile, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Japan, Guyana, Nauru, New Zealand, Cameroon, India and Canada.

8. At the 4th meeting, on 14 August, statements were made by the representatives of France, China, Uganda, Mauritania, Norway, Nigeria, the Bahamas, Kenya, Djibouti, Jamaica, Zimbabwe, Cameroon, Colombia, Sweden, Brazil and Austria. Statements were also made by the representatives of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the World Health Organization, the World Bank, the United Nations Children's Fund, the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations Centre on Transnational Corporations, the United Nations Centre for Science and Technology for Development and the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements.

9. At the 5th meeting, on 15 August, statements were made by the representatives of Norway, Nauru, Guyana, Australia, Bolivia, the Federal Republic of Germany, Argentina, Chile, Switzerland and India. Statements were also made by the representatives of the World Health Organization, the International Atomic Energy Agency, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development.

10. At its 14th meeting, on 30 August, the Working Group approved a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/WG.I/L.1/Rev.1), submitted by the Chairman on the basis of informal consultations, and recommended it to the Preparatory Committee for adoption.

B. Ozone depletion

11. The Working Group considered the question of ozone depletion (agenda item 1 (b)) at its 5th and 14th meetings, on 15 and 30 August. At the 5th meeting, on 15 August, introductory statements were made by the representatives of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development and the United Nations Environment Programme. Statements were made by the representatives of Italy, Chile, Botswana, Norway, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Malaysia, Singapore, Mauritania, Mexico, Myanmar, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. The representatives of the World Health Organization and the International Maritime Organization also made statements.

12. At its 14th meeting, on 30 August, the Working Group approved a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/WG.I/L.2/Rev.1), submitted by the Chairman on the basis of informal consultations, and recommended it to the Preparatory Committee for adoption.

C. Transboundary air pollution

13. The Working Group considered the question of transboundary air pollution (agenda item 1 (c)) at its 6th and 14th meetings, on 15 and 30 August.

14. At the 6th meeting, on 15 August, introductory statements were made by the representatives of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development and the United Nations Environment Programme. Statements were made by the representatives of Italy (on behalf of the States members of the European Economic Community), Sweden, the Netherlands, Argentina, France, Norway, Singapore, Japan, India, Finland, Mexico, Nigeria, Thailand, China, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. Statements were also made by the representatives of the World Health Organization and the World Meteorological Organization (on behalf also of the International Atomic Energy Agency). The observer for the International Organization of Consumers Unions, a non-governmental organization in consultative status with the Economic and Social Council, made a statement.

15. At its 14th meeting, on 30 August, the Working Group approved a draft decision (A/CONF.151/PC/WG.I/L.3/Rev.1), submitted by the Chairman on the basis of informal consultations, and recommended it to the Preparatory Committee for adoption.

III. LAND RESOURCES

A. Deforestation

16. The Working Group considered the question of deforestation (agenda item 2 (a)) at its 7th to 10th and 14th meetings, on 16, 17, 20 and 30 August.

17. At the 7th meeting, on 16 August, introductory statements were made by the representatives of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Statements were also made by the representatives of Brazil, Colombia, Malaysia, Japan and China.

18. At the 8th meeting, on 16 August, statements were made by the representatives of Belgium, Chad, Indonesia, Sweden, Myanmar, Mauritania, Tunisia, Norway, Botswana, the Federal Republic of Germany, Bolivia, New Zealand, France, Chile, Kenya, the United States of America, Australia, India, Mexico, Bangladesh and Italy. The observer for the International Tropical Timber Organization also made a statement.

19. At the 9th meeting, on 17 August, statements were made by the representatives of Senegal, Zimbabwe, Jamaica, China, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, the Bahamas, the Philippines, India, Nigeria, Thailand, Zaire, Chile, Venezuela, Colombia, Canada, Australia, Brazil, the Bahamas, Malaysia, India, Argentina and Mauritania. Statements were also made by the representatives of the World Meteorological Organization, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the United Nations Environment Programme and the United Nations Development Programme. The observer for the Commission of the European Communities made a statement.
